

GET IN LINE, EVERYBODY.

The Times-Review would like to see a free coinage bill introduced in each House of Congress. It would then like to see every newspaper, Republican, Democratic, neutral and independent, in the silver producing States and Territories, pledge itself to support at the next election the candidates of the party which gave the most votes to free coinage. That would mean business, and would settle the question satisfactorily a year hence, if it didn't during the present session. The Times-Review would cheerfully make such pledge under such conditions, and it only wishes that the opportunity was afforded to make it.—Times-Review.

This idea has the real genuine ring. The APPEAL would be glad of the same opportunity. So far there is no free coinage bill before Congress. The bills now under discussion contain only half-way measures, and some of the pretended silver bills contain the same demonetization nigger in the fence that characterized the disgraceful jugglery of Sherman years ago, when the gold bugs got in their deadly work.

The bills now before Congress are so indirect and circumlocutory that few men can tell (until after they become a law) what effect they will have on silver.

Let the press of the State, irrespective of party, demand of its representatives that they introduce a free coinage bill that will place every man in both houses on record, that the roll call may be stored away for future reference.

The plan selected by the Times-Review would force both parties into line for silver, and each party would vie with the other to give silver a solid support.

We want no half-way measures this session. If the free coinage bill were defeated it need not jeopardize the other bills which are alluded to as "steps in that direction."

The APPEAL favors a meeting at an early date of the Nevada Press Association that the papers of the State may agree upon the line of action outlined by the Times-Review. The Press Associations of the other Western States could follow suit, and as soon as it was a settled fact that every paper West of the Omaha would be solid for the party giving the most votes for free coinage, then free coinage would be a settled fact.

A HINT TO NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS.—A young newspaper man who was employed on a Western paper to do some department work proved to be so unsatisfactory that the editor asked him to resign. He did so and disappeared. Pretty soon the editor in search of new talent, noticed the brilliant work of somebody on a little back-country paper that had never before amounted to anything and determined to secure the man who did this work at any price. But what was his surprise and discomfort to learn that it was the very same man whom he had discharged a few months before, and who, being allowed a larger swing, had developed an unexpected brilliancy.

The San Francisco Report thinks that the United States army is not an army, in fact, but merely an armed police force, and that it will not be an army until it shall have learned the new conditions of war brought about by the range and precision of modern weapons and the use of smokeless powder.

The Central Nevada says the Humboldt and Reese rivers are very high at present, both being over their banks at present near Battle Mountain.

Elko Cattlemen estimate the loss of live stock in Elko county last winter at $1,000,000 and the whole State at $3,000,000.
